

Media Release

Roll up, Roll up! Cirquinox performs @ Norman Lindsay Gallery

Ever dreamt of running away with the Circus – well here's a chance to test your skills. Cirquinox is a colourful, interactive circus festival featuring aerial acts, stage shows, roving performers, a circus play space, face painting, circus stalls and refreshments. The brave and adventurous are invited to test their skills in the circus workshops.

Cirquinox 2008 will be held in the grounds of the Norman Lindsay Gallery at Faulconbridge, Sunday 21 September from 10am to 4pm.

"Cirquinox will feature a fantastic line up of entertainment. Between performances, there will be stalls and roving entertainment to be enjoyed," said Cirquinox producer and director, Alison Wheeler.

Most of the performers are local talent, drawn from the Blue Mountains and Central West. Acts include Kate Reid from Candy Stripe Circus, Tee's Top Time, Mr. Qwirk, All in One Circus, Liqueur Flambé, and Captain Finhead. There will also be performances from Ruby Bloomers Women's Circus, Zany Yare, Circo Blurto and Dark Mask Productions, representing local young artists.

Cirquinox is auspiced by the Upper Blue Mountains Circus Arts Project. The Blue Mountains City Council Cultural Partnerships Program is a proud sponsor of the event, with more sponsors to be announced.

Adults $15, Child / Concession $9 (includes all shows).

A shuttle trolley bus service will run from Springwood Station for a gold coin donation. Norman Lindsay Gallery is located at 14 Norman Lindsay Crescent, Faulconbridge via Springwood Blue Mountains

Photos available

For more information
Kathy Scott National Trust Communications Manager 0415 764 159

Alison Wheeler Cirquinox Festival Producer & Director 0414 347 906
www.cirquinox.org.au

Advance bookings
Norman Lindsay Gallery 02 4751 1067 nlg@hermes.net.au